

This form is an optional self-study to help assess your experiences and determine what additional specialized training might be necessary to meet the competencies and earn Endorsement for Culturally Sensitive, Relationship-Focused Practice Promoting Infant & Early Childhood Mental Health® (Endorsement).

For your reference, Infant Mental Health Endorsement focuses on work with pregnant people, infants, toddlers (up to age 3) and their families. Early Childhood Mental Health Endorsement focuses on work with children age 3-6 and their families. Some Endorsement applicants might choose to pursue both Infant and Early Childhood Mental Health Endorsement, while others might focus their experience within one or the other.

1. Read the Competency Guidelines (MI-AIMH Copyright © 2017), and pay special attention to the requirements for the Endorsement category for which you are applying
2. Review your resume/vita, a copy of your unofficial transcripts, and gather your in-service training records
3. Look at what you have done, using the self-study grid below, and ask yourself if you have had a college/university course, an in-service training or a work experience that has contributed to your knowledge or skill in a particular area. For now, place a check mark in the appropriate box (or write short notes about the experience). These check marks will help you identify the competency areas once you begin work in your EASy Application.

Consider where your strengths lie and what you need to do to “fill in the gaps” to develop greater competency as an:

Infant Family Associate (IFA)
Early Childhood Family Associate (ECFA)
Infant Family Specialist (IFS)
Early Childhood Family Specialist (ECFS)
Infant Family Reflective Supervisor (IFRS)
Early Childhood Family Reflective Supervisor (ECFRS)
Infant Mental Health Specialist (IMHS)
Early Childhood Mental Health Specialist (ECMHS)
Infant Mental Health Mentor (IMHM)
Early Childhood Mental Health Mentor (ECMHM)

4. Keep in mind that during a formal application review, at least one trained application reviewer will comprehensively examine your materials and determine whether or not you have met the requirements and the competencies. All of the knowledge and skill areas are required (as specified for each category of Endorsement), but an application reviewer(s) will pay closest attention to those listed under Theoretical Foundations and Direct Service Skills. In general, when considering whether or not a knowledge/skill area has been “met,” the most weight is given to college courses, then to intensive or series in-services, then to shorter in-services, then conferences, then reference ratings, then work experience
5. Identify gaps i.e., competency areas where you feel you have not yet had enough specialized education or in-service training
6. Find in-service training opportunities to help you fill in any identified gaps in the knowledge/skill areas. Information about relevant training opportunities can be found at www.NCIMHA.org/competency-based-training-catalog/
